Snapdragon 835 neural processing SDK targets Android and Linux gizmos

By Rianne Schestowitz
Created 27/07/2017 - 1:11am

Qualcomm’s Snapdragon Neural Processing Engine SDK for the Snapdragon 835 supports Caffe, Caffe2, or TensorFlow AI frameworks on Linux or Android targets.

In May 2016, Qualcomm announced its first deep learning software development kit, called the Snapdragon Neural Processing Engine for the Snapdragon 820 system-on-chip. Now, it’s releasing a more advanced SDK for the Snapdragon 835 (APQ8098).

[3]

Android Linux

Source URL: http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/103360

Links: