After recently releasing their own in-house designed Thelio desktop system, System76 have announced they're giving away some funding to open source projects from laptop sales.

The projects include KiCad, Electronic Frontier Foundation (EFF), Free Software Foundation (FSF), and the Open Source Hardware Association (OSHW). "We picked these four projects to represent a wide array of efforts within open source initiatives." Says Louisa Bisio at System76.

A bug-free Windows 10 October Update still seems to be far away, and Windows users have already come up with another issue.

According to a trending Reddit thread, many Microsoft Windows users are complaining that their Windows Pro version is demoted to Windows Home version without any notification or prior warning.
