

?they?re brewing up some polish?

By srlinuxx

Created 13/02/2007 - 8:48pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Tuesday 13th of February 2007 08:48:12 PM Filed under SUSE [1]

I?m inspecting easily internal betas of the first service pack for SLED10, and it?s looking very cool. Before getting into some of its features, I want to give a little preview what apparently will be an overall theme for the service pack: stupendous amounts of polish.

People regularly tell me that they think SLED10 is by far the most polished looking Linux desktop available. Many of these comments come from people who primarily use some distribution other than SLED. So, if you are one of those people who loves to see how glossy desktop Linux is becoming, allow me to share with you a look at some of the finely detailed minutia in Service Pack 1?s visual appeal.

Full Story [2].

SUSE

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/13416>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/117>

[2] <http://reverendtd.wordpress.com/2007/02/13/theyre-brewing-up-some-polish/>