Interview with Jory Burson, Community Director, OpenJS Foundation on Open Source Standards

JP: I think it's great that we've seen companies like Microsoft that used to have much more closed systems embrace open standards over the last ten years or so.

The Linux Foundation Hosts Forum to Share Linux Stories for 30th Anniversary

The Linux Foundation, the nonprofit organization enabling mass innovation through open source, is recognizing World Penguin Day, May 25, by kicking off a global campaign to find out how Linux has impacted people's lives. Everyone is invited to share. Thirty submissions will be randomly selected and highlighted in celebration of the 30th Anniversary of Linux, occurring this year.
