For the better part of three years, we have remained silent about your ongoing efforts to affect people’s perception of our Linux distribution continuously. We have tried our best not to engage with your evident hostility and disregard to inform your viewers and visitors about correct facts of the Linux distributions you display on your website, especially ours.

However, we have decided to take a stance. It is today, the 6th of May, that we gallantly demand you to stop. We do not accept for one more minute that the information displayed on your website about our product remains erroneous in what is no longer a ‘mistake’ or ‘oversight’ on your part. In addition, we do not accept the way you have chosen to describe our product, including making an absolute wild claim that we did not offer our product to the public before an arbitrary date, even if that is easily refuted.

[3]

GNU Linux

Source URL: http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/150857

Links: