Here are a few basic signs that it might be time to go outside for some fresh air.

- * You become very, very confused when pressing the "tab" key does not fill in the rest of what you were typing.
- * The phrase "man mount" does not strike you as particularly odd.
- * When on your Windows partition you want to play a game, so you open up a command prompt and start typing "wine C:\Pro..."
- * You are surprised at the blank look your boss gives you when you attempt to tell him, "sudo give me a raise".
