

Gattica is Here! ... well, in NZ

By srlinuxx

Created 31/07/2005 - 3:04am

Submitted by srlinuxx on Sunday 31st of July 2005 03:04:02 AM Filed under Sci/Tech [1]

An Auckland clinic has been given the go-ahead to begin screening embryos for parents wanting to give birth to babies without genetic disorders.

The screening technology - pre-implantation genetic diagnosis (PGD) - will allow parents who are at risk of passing on certain inherited diseases to choose a "healthy" embryo to start a pregnancy.

The long-awaited move has been welcomed by parents keen to use the service, but opponents fear it is the start of a slippery slope towards "designer babies" and discrimination against those with disabilities.

Full Story [2].

Sci/Tech

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/1991>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/75>

[2] http://www.nzherald.co.nz/index.cfm?c_id=5&ObjectID=10338418