Day two of Quakecon has been an eventful one for us as we got inside looks at Doom the movie, met with vendors, toured the booths, and saw the tournaments bring out the real competition.

First looks at the Doom were impressive as the realism and likeness to the game were amazing.

Our main focus today, other than gaming, was to meet with the vendors and hear about their upcoming products.

Later we met AMD and were able to hear about where they were headed with the products.

Creative even bought lunch.
