It's being reported [3] that Microsoft has had to issue more patches for several vulnerabilities. In fact "six of the patches deal with code that was updated in Windows Service Pack 2." I wonder if this [4] has been addressed. This comes on the heels of announcing [5] the purchase of an anti-virus software company and being countersued by ITAC for libel. Here's [6] that story. Makes one really glad they use Linux huh?
