It's a girl!

I know a lot of you have been wondering what's going on here, and the news is that my wife Andrea delivered our first child, a daughter Briah Cecilia (briah at slackware dot com) on 2005-11-22, and that event (and the weeks that led up to it) has had to take priority over the usual tasks of download/compile/test/package/upload. But, things should be getting back to normal here (more or less) over the next couple of weeks, particularly after the holiday season has come and gone. As you might expect, there are a lot of friends and relatives who want to see her.
