

OpenOffice Will Survive

By srlinuxx

Created 24/08/2010 - 12:25am

Submitted by srlinuxx on Tuesday 24th of August 2010 12:25:57 AM Filed under OOo [1]

However, the time between updates make increase by a large margin.

That?s what I take from the current problems that are causing fear and loathing in the open source camp. Many are afraid that Oracle is going to become as big a problem for OpenOffice as it has for OpenSolaris.

The difference is that OpenOffice has safety in numbers, being estimated at garnering a full 10% of the office productivity market. OpenSolaris is a miniscule part of the overall small operating systems market, usually categorized as ?Other?.

rest here [2]

OOo

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/47307>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/127>

[2] <http://www.lockergnome.com/theoracle/2010/08/23/openoffice-will-survive/>