The project is moving along. We are getting closer and closer to Beta 1 Final (it will be released this month. Here is a quick overview of what has been going on...

Call to Web Developers

Symphony OS's Mezzo Desktop is implemented using the same technologies used in web development. It's nice, but it could be so much better. We are putting out a call to web developers who want to get involved.

Apt-Plus Project

Thanks to the hard work of xorbit the Apt-Plus (One-Click) client is finally taking shape. I am hopeful that we will release the first alpha of Apt-Plus & OneClick by the end of January.

Dashboard Compatibility Project

The recent news that the KDE project plans to have dashboard support in 4.0 is great news for symphony too.
