

2011's Tribulations and Triumphs for FOSS

By srlinuxx

Created 15/12/2011 - 7:16pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Thursday 15th of December 2011 07:16:00 PM Filed under OSS [1]

Well December is halfway over for another year, and that means 2011 is drawing to a close.

It's been a tempestuous year, most would surely agree, and one that wrought momentous change in this already fast-paced industry of ours.

Which were the biggest, most monumental events here in the world of FOSS, you ask?

Ask four different Linux bloggers and you'll get four different answers -- which is just what Linux Girl did.

'As if IT's Pope Had Died'

"No question about it -- THE technology story for 2011 is the death of Steve Jobs," opined Barbara Hudson, a blogger on Slashdot who goes by "Tom" on the site

rest here [2]

OSS

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/56036>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/72>

[2] <http://www.linuxinsider.com/story/2011s-Tribulations-and-Triumphs-for-FOSS-73979.html>