Pear OS is a new Linux desktop distribution based on Ubuntu Desktop with the graphical installer. Its development started in early August 2011 by David Tavares (from France), and on August 15 2011, Pear OS 1.0, the first version marked "stable," was released. The latest edition, release on December 14 2011, is Pear OS Linux Panther 3.

Though a Linux distribution running the GNOME 3 desktop, Pear OS's desktop is fashioned after Apple's Mac OS X, and each major version's code name is taken from the Mac OS release with a corresponding version number. So, "Panther," the code name of Pear OS Linux 3, is taken from the code name of Mac OS 10.3.
