

LibreOffice 3.5.4 Released, w/ 100% Better Performance?

By srlinuxx

Created 31/05/2012 - 1:52am

Submitted by srlinuxx on Thursday 31st of May 2012 01:52:32 AM Filed under LibO [1]

Today The Document Foundation released the latest version of their Open Source office productivity suite. This release comes with lots of bug fixes and something everybody loves: improved performance. In fact, the release announcement claims that one could experience as much as 100% better performance.

The announcement attributes this amazing improvement to "the combined result of the many code optimizations executed during the last months and the bug and regression chasing activity performed regularly by volunteers and developers."

rest here [2]

LibO

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/57647>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/138>

[2] <http://ostatic.com/blog/libreoffice-3-5-4-released-w-100-better-performance>