GIMP is one of the most important applications for Linux users. It gives them some of the capabilities found in other popular image manipulation programs without the expense. Well, a group of enthusiasts have banded together to produce a new magazine just for GIMP users. GIMP Magazine "features the amazing works created from an enormous community from all over the world estimated at around 8-10 million people."

The GIMP Magazine features "photography, digital arts, tips and tricks, step by step tutorials, master classes, help desk questions, and so much more."
