

Music players shakedown

By srlinuxx

Created 19/09/2012 - 7:48pm

Submitted by srlinuxx on Wednesday 19th of September 2012 07:48:15 PM Filed under Software [1]

Playing music is easy, just choose a media player of some sort and fire up a few songs. With the right plugins or codecs installed, you will hear sound pouring from the speakers. Easy. However, finding the right software to suit your needs, taste and mood, and help you organize music ? is not. Today, we have a little contest coming up, between Amarok, Clementine, and Tomahawk.

Amarok

As you probably know, Amarok is a popular music player for KDE desktops, perhaps the most popular. The list of capabilities is truly impressive. Amarok will run on Windows, if you are so inclined, and it will adorn your other Linux desktops quite well, too.

rest here [2]

Software

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/58510>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/38>

[2] <http://netrunner-mag.com/?p=1861>