John Bernard, the marketing manager for Canonical's OEM unit, will be leaving his position at the end of this week in order to move across to Mozilla's mobile Firefox OS unit.

A Canonical spokeswoman confirmed Bernard's decision to change roles in a statement on Tuesday.

"We can confirm that John will be leaving Canonical at the end of the week. After over three years at Canonical working on many of our marketing initiatives with OEMs, we wish John all the best in his new role at Mozilla," she said.
