

Linux: The big misconceptions

By srlinuxx

Created 04/10/2012 - 2:02am

Submitted by srlinuxx on Thursday 4th of October 2012 02:02:37 AM Filed under Linux [1]

I get a lot of emails from users of various types of users, from various industries, and from various levels of skill. But there are two types of emails that I get the most:

- * I want to learn more about Linux, but there?s no where to start.
- * I can?t use Linux because it?s still archaic and won?t do what I need.

In some ways and in different blogs, I have tried to address both topics. But I thought it time to address both of these topics directly here on TechRepublic. Why? The main reason is because I feel this to be the best podium from which to tackle these issues. The secondary reason is that I feel a certain loyalty to the TechRepublic nation that I do not have with any other site. With that said, let?s see what can be done about these two misconceptions.

Rest here [2]

Linux

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/58645>

- Links:
- [1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/63>
 - [2] <http://www.techrepublic.com/blog/opensource/linux-the-big-misconceptions/3853>