It's at times like these that make me wish I had been the source of my son's artistic abilities, but alas, those must have come from his father's side. Since my images rarely resemble what I'm attempting, OpenMandriva is going to have to rely upon you to design and create their new logo. So, a new competition has begun.

"The competition will be open for 30 days, ending on 22nd of February. The theme of this competition is based on our core values: freedom, openness and collaboration."
