Between the tiny PC phenomenon and the growing number of PCs shipping with Linux preloaded over the past year, there's been no shortage of hardware announcements for Linux fans.

It's been a little less active on the tablet front, but just this week two separate announcements emerged about Linux tablets we've been waiting for.

Here's a quick rundown on the basics.

The PengPod: Now shipping

As I noted late last year, the PengPod surpassed its funding goal of $49,000 in its Indiegogo campaign, pulling in more than $72,000 instead.
