The Great Little Radio Player is a perfect example of how great things can come in small packages.

This robust Internet radio station streamer does not burden system resources and packs a powerhouse of listening pleasure immediately after installing it. It's so fine-tuned that it needs no configuring to use it, but you can still tweak a few pleasantries to make it feel more at home on your computer.

Great Little Radio Player connects to some 400 websites offering radio streaming. Unlike other radio players that give you a few nonpremium stations, GLRP's streaming inventory is totally free.
