Lets not beat around the bush here, the default font rendering in OpenSuse and the default font do not an OS fit for reading make.. this can be fixed however..

Love or hate Ubuntu, out of the box it has one of the best font rendering setups of any distro and considering how much time we spend on our PC?s setting your fonts up correctly is one less headach, literally.

I?m not sure how much of these instructions I got right, however after a reboot the screen text does at least look better..
