Renowned cryptographer believes his 'Blackphone' can stop the NSA

By Rianne Schestowitz
Created 15/01/2014 - 10:00pm
Submitted by Rianne Schestowitz on Wednesday 15th of January 2014 10:00:22 PM Filed under Security [1]

Revelations about how insecure our communications are have been a daily fixture of the news cycle recently, and it's in this climate that a pair of companies are combining to launch a new smartphone focused on privacy. The Blackphone will run a "security-oriented" version of Android named PrivatOS, which the companies say will allow users to securely place and receive phone calls, text messages, video chat, transfer and store files, and "anonymize your activity" through a VPN.

Read more [2]

Security

Source URL: http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/62708

Links:
[1] http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/59
[2] http://www.theverge.com/2014/1/15/5310710/phil-zimmermann-silent-circle-geeksphone-blackphone-launch