LAST night I received a timely recommendation of the Debian-based MakuluLinux. For more details and background see the main page of MakuluLinux [2], this recent video review [3], and a very brief announcement of an upcoming release with MATE [4], which is described in this old post [5].

There is a lot more information out there about MakuluLinux Mate Edition [6], whose 1.8 version is being planned/finalised/slated for release this Monday [7]. There isn't yet an official site announcement, but the links to the Preview Edition will hopefully help those who want to try out the distro. It is a "true" community distro of GNU/Linux. ?
