You might feel that the names of Nitrx and Numix sound a little familiar. The developers involved with these are responsible for numerous icon packs and themes for the Linux systems, and Nitrx also has its own Linux distribution called Nitrx OS.

The collaboration between two teams has been going for quite a while, and the upcoming operating system that has been promised by Nitrx and Numix finally got a face. Until now there were only glimpses and teases, but the Linux community can now get a good look at Ozon OS.
