

Updated OpenOffice 'good news for administrations

By Rianne Schestowitz

Created 30/04/2014 - 9:32am

Submitted by Rianne Schestowitz on Wednesday 30th of April 2014 09:32:52 AM Filed under LibO [1]

The improved accessibility features included in today's new version of Apache OpenOffice, an open source suite of office productivity tools, is good news for public administrations, expects Rob Weir, Project Management Committee Member at the Apache Software Foundation. Public administrations favour software solutions with strong accessibility support, he says. "By including Iaccessible2 support, we've removed a potential objection against the adoption of OpenOffice."

[2]

LibO

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/65371>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/138>

[2] <https://joinup.ec.europa.eu/community/news/updated-openoffice-good-news-administrations>