

Australian government likely to standardise on Drupal

By Roy Schestowitz

Created 10/05/2014 - 8:58pm

Submitted by Roy Schestowitz on Saturday 10th of May 2014 08:58:55 PM Filed under OSS [1] Drupal [2]

The federal government is eyeing the introduction of a government-wide content-management system. The Australian Government Information Management Office (AGIMO) has indicated its preference is to use the open-source Drupal Web platform and to have the CMS delivered as a cloud service.

"The Government Content Management System (GovCMS) is envisaged as an important service offering for Australian Commonwealth Government agencies," the Australian government CTO, John Sheridan, wrote in a blog entry.

"GovCMS is intended to support more effective web channel delivery functions within Government, and enable agencies to redirect effort from non-core transactional activities, towards higher-value activities that are more aligned with core agency missions," a draft statement of requirements issued by AGIMO states.

[3]

Source URL: <http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/65670>

Links:

[1] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/72>

[2] <http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/126>

[3] http://www.computerworld.com.au/article/544726/australian_government_likely_standardise_drupal/