Opening Up Windows

By srlinuxx
Created 25/06/2006 - 1:28pm
Submitted by srlinuxx on Sunday 25th of June 2006 01:28:55 PM Filed under Misc [1]

Are Web-based applications the way of the future? A lot of people seem to think so--including the former head of development at Microsoft.

Next month Paul Maritz, once third in command at the Redmond, Wash., software giant, will unveil a set of software products he's been cooking up in stealth mode since 2003. His company, PI, has developed desktop software that is intended to go beyond what Windows-based PCs can offer.

Some of PI's code will even be open-sourced, available free for download starting in July, Maritz says. (Open-sourced programs ship with their source code, or basic instructions, available for users to view and modify.) But the company will focus primarily on a licensed version that costs money.

Full Story [2].

Misc

Source URL: http://www.tuxmachines.org/node/7810

Links:
[1] http://www.tuxmachines.org/taxonomy/term/78
[2] http://www.forbes.com/technology/2006/06/23/linux_vista_open_cz_dl_0623linux.html